Types of Free Character Traits Worksheets

There is a variety of worksheets available that cater to different grade levels and learning objectives. Understanding these types can help you select the most appropriate ones for your needs.

1. Character Trait Lists

These worksheets provide extensive lists of adjectives that describe personality traits. Students might be asked to circle traits that fit a character from a story or to pick traits that describe themselves or someone they know. This type is excellent for vocabulary building and initial exposure.

2. Character Trait Graphic Organizers

Graphic organizers visually map out character traits alongside supporting evidence from a text. For example, a chart might have columns for "Trait," "Evidence," and "Explanation." This format encourages analytical thinking and helps students support their ideas with textual proof.

3. Character Trait Matching Exercises

Matching worksheets challenge learners to connect traits with their definitions or examples. This reinforces understanding and ensures that students truly grasp the meaning behind each trait word.

4. Creative Writing Prompts

Some worksheets inspire students to create their own characters, complete with a list of traits and backstory. This approach fosters creativity and applies knowledge in a fun, imaginative way.

Use your browser's back button to return. Premise - psychological wounding is epidemic in America because of an unseen inherited cycle of ineffective parenting and ignorance. This book describes the wounds, what they mean, and what to do about them. This fourth edition (Feb. 2011) will introduce you to your inner family, and who leads it in calm and crisis times. If you don't know who comprises your inner crew or who's in charge of them, you may be living life as a hostage to a false self and not know it. If so, you're probably living well below your potential, and may also be wounding kids in your life without meaning to. The rest of the book outlines an effective way to reduce any significant wounds, and live a calmer, more authentic, productive, satisfying life. Notice your reaction to these proposals and to the book's title. I suspect you think "Well I am running my life!" Sure - but have you ever thought about who "I" is? Using radiographic PET scans, we're the first generation in history to be able to see these regions operating concurrently. The unitary experience of "I see my child laugh" involves many regions of your brain at once without your knowing it. So does everything you do! It describes what I've come to believe without question about average women and men like you: Normal people have personalities that are composed of a group of subselves or parts, like members of an orchestra or athletic team. Each subself has it's own talent or gift, it's own values, goals, and limitations. Our inner families of subselves can range from harmonious to chaotic in calm and crisis times. The nature of our subselves and the relationships among them are determined in the first several years of life of average kids. If kids are
